Library Department

Facilities for Physically Challenged Students

The Department of Library is providing myriad of facilities and services to physically challenged students in the college. Library Staff look after these students personally. The library has acquired 36 braille books, 50 Audio-books and a screen reader software i.e. NVDA (Non Visual Desktop Access).

The NVDA Software is a free and open-source portable screen reader available for Windows Operating system in 48 languages, providing feedback via synthetic speech and Braille, it enables blind people to access computers. The visually impaired students are allowed to sit in the Internet Section of the library and use the computer to complete their assignments, using this software.

Essential Software: A Screen Reader

A screen reader is an essential piece of software for a blind or visually impaired person. Simply put, a screen reader transmits whatever text is displayed on the computer screen into a form that a visually impaired user can process (usually tactile, auditory or a combination of both). While the most basic screen readers will not help blind users navigate a computer, those with additional features can give people with visual impairment much more independence.

NVDA- Non Visual Desktop Access

This is designed to help users who are new to Non Visual Desktop Access (NVDA) learn the basic controls for testing web content, and to serve as a reference for the occasional NVDA user. Nonvisual Desktop Access (NVDA) is a free and open source screen reader for the Microsoft Windows operating system.

NVDA Screen Reader

Non Visual Desktop Access (NVDA) is a free, open-source, portable screen reader for Microsoft Windows. The project was started by Michael Curran in 2006. NVDA is programmed in Python.

Start with NVDA:

- Choose Start, All Programs, NVDA, You will hear a tone to let you know NVDA is running in the background.
- To hear what is currently on the screen, start moving the mouse around NYD will read what is under cursor as you move the mouse. While NVDA is running you can use all of the standard Windows keyboard shortcuts as well
- To pause NVDA, press the Control key on your keyboard. Pressing the Control key again will resume NVDA.
- Most NVDA commands require you to use the Insert key on your keyboard to hear
- The title of the current window, press Insert, T. To hear the contents of the current window, press Insert, B.
- To quit NVDA, press Insert, Q.
- To start NVDA using the keyboard, press Control, Alt,

To help students with special needs campus has made tremendous strides, that buildings be accessible to those with physically impaired and visually challengeable.

- Supportive Teaching and Non-teaching staff in office & Exam section

College staff members always help to divyangjan/physically disabled student such as in admission process, examination work, filling scholarship form, travelling from home to college etc

Besides these provisions the students have a friendly ambience to make them feel ease by sharing the common interest and considering their social responsibilities in making them one among. Thus the college provides a friendly aura to the physically impaired and visually challengeable students.
