

7.2 - Best Practices

7.2.1 - Describe two best practices successfully implemented by the Institution as per NAAC format provided in the Manual.

Best Practice No:01

1. Title of practice:- Initiative for the sustainable Agriculture as per local needs.

2. Objective of the practice:-

- To familiarize farmers with various weather forecast apps, devices and crop management.
- To acquaint farmers with various financial schemes for farmers.
- To guide farmers regarding food processing technologies and marketing of goods.

3. The Context:- In the institute majority of students belong to farmer family. Nearby three different tehsils rich in agriculture are situated. Biggest challenge in India is a wide gap between advanced technology, development and facilities in agriculture and farmers. The institute organized various activities to bridge the gap.

4. The Practice:-

Institute organized farmers fare in which farmers from nearby Tehsils were invited. Eminent experts were invited for guiding farmers.

4.1) Weather forecast apps, devices and crop management:

Prof. Kirankumar Johare guided the farmers about the importance of weather forecasting electronic Apps & Devices in farming must be consider as the world continues to deal with global warming, climate change and its adverse effect on global food production. Weather forecasting in farming refers to the prediction of the atmospheric condition of a place at a given time to ascertain its suitability or unsuitability for agricultural activities. This modern agricultural practice stems from the relationship between stable atmospheric conditions such as rainfall, sunshine, temperature, humidity, air, and bountiful yield. For example, weather forecasting enables farmer to properly plan farm operations, such as planting, irrigation, fertilizer application, pruning/weeding, harvesting or livestock mating, since farming and agriculture as a whole chiefly depend on seasons and weather. One of the advantages of weather forecasting is its pre-emptive quality — empowering farmers with knowledge of an area's climatic changes before they occur.
